27-10-26

Woman as Man's Channel to the Earth

Man's Heart – in general: Man – receives power on an earthly level when Woman (more or less, or even completely) submits to Him, and becomes His Channel. Thus He can Transmit His (in the best case High-Level) Consciousness, from the Subtler Higher Planes of Existence, to the Earth.

This principle is sensitive to, subject to abuse. It could be said, and at least theoretically, that every man not yet Whole is, usually unconsciously, abusing this principle, if Woman falls for him prematurely, so to speak.

If Woman becomes his channel She not only receives his higher qualities, if present at all (and by which She likes to be 'upgraded', compensated for Her earthly form-inheritance), but also all his lower un-transcended qualities that live a non-integrated life of their own, the formations stuck in him, his attachments, the abusive forces possibly reigning him in the dark, and certainly also his deranged, deformed, distorting, fooling consciousness, not yet speaking of the fact that the by Woman detected higher qualities in a man may be deluding, it may have been wishful thinking.

So, she must know what She is doing.

She doesn't – generally speaking.

She gives power to men who don't deserve this on the grounds of their spiritual development.

Understandably, but even so, She is deluded to assume that, for Her purposes – in the first place bearing and raising up healthy children – the earthly qualities in (what is considered, prematurely defined as) Man are most important, even if not the only ones determining her choice. Most people will agree with Her. Yet it is not True. It is, again, as always, a lack of Understanding of Who and What we are, including the fact that this earthly physical life is not all there is. Also, to name but one 'detail', the time spent in the Other World may be quite longer than the short life span here on earth. To, then, invest all of your resources, energy and attention to what seem to be the best earthly qualities may turn out to be backing the wrong horse. It may turn out to be the same basic error scientists make considering the brain the (steering) centre of life producing via still unfathomable ways consciousness, instead of acknowledging Life Itself as Consciousness producing the kind of radio receiver called brains.

Woman's fundamental delusion, written in the soil and rivers of the earth, makes it also that She doesn't (want to) Know What Man Is. Her Task seems to be to maintain, sustain the earth and its (current and coming) inhabitants. There is a Force working through Her that Wants to stay Unconscious regarding Man('s Essence) and Her Relation to Him, despite that the other side, the Force of Consciousness, is Working through Her, too, in Her wrenching Duality – albeit the latter Force is usually weaker than the first, even when outwardly She is pulling at Man to give His Consciousness to Her, more, deeper, purer.

Woman, however, is Part of a much Wider, Deeper, more Profound Process, that of Man and Woman.

Not only occultists – in principle everyone with at least some normal basic intuition about the deeper reality – know that a man and woman who come really together Create a third phenomenon, an invisible entity if you wish, a king of Energy-Consciousness that either of them alone cannot make – well, with an Open Eye one can see it actually manifested, too.

That's why Creation is, in Principle, Beyond self.

There needs to be Surrender to Something Other, the Other Sex.

The selves cannot Create this 'Third Being' Outshining in every possible way the petty selves, The Being of Truth. Truth is Ruthlessly Selfless. To many, especially women, it will almost feel like mean, Truth's Ruthlessness. Man, in Principle, in His Male State, has no problem with it. If he gambles, puts his cards on the self for instance, and He loses, he takes the loss.

If Man doesn't put himself (his supposed self) in between, the Interaction with Woman, That Which can be Created Beyond them, can lead to great Heights.

Yet, the abuse – or preliminary use, as you could say more mildly – is, despite the pain it reveals and that needs to be brought into awareness and be felt, in itself not the end of the world after all, since Man's Potential, His True Force that could in principle be 'Downloaded' to the Earth via Woman, cannot be cheated in the end. Anything unauthentic is sifted out, and the 'downloader' gets a substitute that doesn't give him the Divine Power, but a faint extract by which some men want to rule anyway: on individual level in the relationship with (a) woman, or over a group or community, on global level to rule the whole world. The worldly power it may render is mainly for this world – which can be (and is) bad enough anyway, that's true.

In the Other World the cheating will be balanced – punished, if you will, compensated by suffering. The suffering one escaped here on earth by hurting others instead of allowing the pain to emerge in your own organism – the suffering that is your birth right, however – will have to be felt afterwards, and, on top of that, the same holds true for all – and I (love to) repeat all – the pain you inflict(ed) on others, willingly or unconsciously. In this respect, (sneaking into) Unconsciousness is no justification, it will appear to you, as you may have hoped while, out of ease, brushing under the carpet what the actual consequences are of what you do. The Seeing Eye is always There. Everything is stored. There is a Divine 'Surveillance' other than the shitty earthly one designed by the power elite for control.

So, the ego may, and does, pick out of the Whole what it wants for itself, later this needs to be compensated, brought back into the Whole, reconcile with the Whole. The compensation touches, brings forth what the ego wanted to avoid in the first place in its aspirations. Serving the Whole while on Earth, avoids this (inherently painful) compensation mechanism, rebalancing later on.

The same holds true for becoming enlightened, or the aspiration for it. If parts of a deeper Reality are Realized indeed, and this is used for one's own un-transcended purposes, this will later be paid back, balanced. On earth there may be no justice, indeed – obvious to anyone with not completely closed eyes – in the Other World there are different Rules, Rules that in principle, in humility, can be known during this earthly life time 'already'.

This world is part, inseparable part of the Other World. Humans' dividing power that seems so successful here on earth – dividing heaven and earth as the fundamental one – appears fruitless in the end, the cherries picked will bear no fruit. The Whole is always stronger.

Woman is no cherry. A man deserves to and will be punished, compensated for any form of abuse of Her – which includes (if not in the first place) the refusal to Enter (Full) Relationship. This doesn't mean that as man, when realizing this, you should deal with Woman with silk gloves. You cannot live that way. But what is relevant is to be Open for Her feedback, given through the use of words and certainly also otherwise, wordless. Here, Man's True Humbleness or the lack of it is Tested. Are you willing to put aside your inborn 'arrogance' as man in relation to Woman, somehow sure to know better anyway, whatever feedback is given, or ungiven? Or are you allowing the feedback, the Reception of it only is able to Create the mentioned Third Being, That Which Outshines Gloriously any attempts, any possible arrogance of either man or woman.

Man should use His deeper Intelligence here. Receiving feedback from Woman is not the same as accepting every feedback of every individual woman (or your partner) as True – usually it is not, or at least not totally, but (quite) distorted. Rather, on the Base of His Heart (but that's 'only' the Essence, the Beginning, the Alpha and the Omega), He Goes Beyond what She shares, what She means beyond any words She may use, or any feelings She has in relation to him. One thing to always keep in (the back of your) mind is that in the End She is After Him, Man Himself – even though, it is true, even this is double in Her – not after you as a man. This takes away a lot of potential drama, and at least the poisonous sting out of it.

If, understandably but anyhow, you feel resistance to the use of the word 'punishment' – I could have been one of you in the past – this means you are still (partly) dwelling in a childish, immature, irresponsible state not wanting to take the full consequences of your very acts, and lack of acts, here on earth. Burdened with personal experiences of the past, you may still project the phenomenon of punishment on unfair parents, teachers, abusers, states, who or whatever. You haven't, in that case, Understood nor Submitted to the Divine Justice.

Woman may like this idea that Man will be 'compensated' ('punished') for His abuse of Her, but Her own fundamental Betrayal of Man during earth life – and thus of Herself – is also in the pipeline to be 'compensated' sooner or later, in whichever world. Truth is Patient of Its Nature. It cannot but Rebalance. There is flexibility on the way, distortion, veiling, manipulating etcetera, but in the end It is heading for Equilibrium – even when in the also always existing mess this seems hard to find.

What will have to be 'compensated' for sure too in the hereafter is the use of Woman as a channel in occult or religious groups and practices. Without entering all the details how it is done in ritual settings for instance, this is usually performed to enhance one's (men's) power, and/or one's consciousness, which is theoretically but practically not necessarily something different. This practice is, from the Divine Perspective, a Sin. Instead of Letting the Divine Power Go Its Own way through allowing manifestation of Humble and Humbling Love, one wants to incorporate the power for oneself.

It is known that in Tantric Buddhist practice of old, for instance, woman, if at all, taken into account, is used for the man's own spiritual purposes, of whatever kind. It is not meant to raise the awareness in Woman. She is used as a tool on the path to Enlightenment. In such sense there is hardly a border between use and abuse. The created imbalance in such practice will, as indicated, have to be 'punished' by the divine rebalancing mechanism.

It is not that Woman is inherently unhappy to be of assistance in Man's spiritual progress or even enlightenment, on the contrary. Only, Divine Nature Says that every progress in Man has to be Given to Woman, and not used for His own limited purpose – inherently limited indeed if and as long as Woman is not included in this, replacing or rather transcending his own goals.

The gruesome and satanic abuse of the feminine in occult groups like the freemasons is something I won't enter here at this place; it is disrespectful to just spend a few words to this and then go on with the next sub-subject. I will only say here that the paying back of those sins will take long, very long, and you will lamentingly cry for mummy and she won't be there, you'll have to fix it, rebalance all by yourself, feeling sincerely, authentically remorse and repent after perhaps hundreds of years of self-imposed suffering. In the hereafter your usual mode of manipulating reality won't be there to help you out. The reality – of what you have done, for one thing – will be shown to you ruthlessly.

More common or generally known forms of abuse of Woman as a channel for man to 'upgrade' himself – as long as it may last, which is not a superfluous addition – is going to a prostitute. Instead of crying one's tears over having no partner to give forms to Love, one takes the easy way. Apart from the ethical issue, 'easy' is but relative if the man would only know what he takes in and upon himself by associating 'intimately' with a prostitute who can hardly but be thoroughly confused by hundreds or thousands of men having entered her before. If as man you don't yet feel the concerned confusion, the starting and continuation of a process wanting to rebalance your energy already during this life time, if you are deluded to assume that you feel better after the genital procedure with(in) the dark, then in the hereafter you will get a second chance, quite an uncomfortable one.

Of course, many more examples could be mentioned, but altogether, the conclusion is that no real lasting manipulation of Woman as a channel can be successfully maintained. The Divine is Constructed in such a way that rebalancing of one's deeds will always happen sooner or later. The whole search for power is, if not bluntly disgusting, then at least utterly deluding. The denial of (the Divine Reality of) Vulnerability – and Vulnerability is the same as the Actual Recognition and Surrender to the Reality of the Heart, or 'God', if you will – will be compensated. There is no free will that says 'I will do it this way and there will be no consequences other than the ones I will choose'. This arrogance will always be 'punished'.

Realizing this, gives Peace, Rest, Embedment in the Whole. It may mean the end of separation in which you have to decide everything by yourself in a vast space in which no distinction seems possible, no direction.